BETTER GINNING, COTTON IMPROVEMENT AND NEW USES OBJECTIVES

HILLSBORO, Feb. 14.—(Sp.)—General Chairman, Burris C. Jackson, is calling the first meeting of the State-wide Cotton Committee of Texas for Thursday, February 21, at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas, beginning at 9:30 a. m. to plan a program of work to carry out the committee's three main objectives: Cotton improvement, better ginning, and a new use for cotton research laboratory.

R. J. Chenham, in charge of cotton utilization for United States Department of Agriculture, will bring the principal address of the morning session on "New Uses for Cotton." Also discussing the need for extended cotton uses will be Victor H. Schoffelmayer, agricultural editor of the Dallas News, and A. M. Goldstein of Waco, chairman of the committee's new use section.

In discussing cotton improvement work, Mrs. Jackson said, "We fully realize and appreciate the good work now being done in the field of cotton improvement by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with Extension Service and Vocational Agriculture Department, and the type of endeavor must be extended to all of Texas to accomplish the desired necessary results."

The one-variety-cotton community program will be thoroughly discussed by recognized leaders and the better ginning discussion will be led by Dr. Brainerd Knapp, president of Texas Tech and F. C. Lichte, ginning specialist of the Extension Service. Lamar Fleming, Jr., of Houston, chairman of the cotton improvement section, will discuss the proposal he has made for a federal cotton improvement corporation.

Chairman Jackson, who will preside over the meeting, in issuing the call and extending a cordial invitation to all persons interested in rectifying the present cotton dilemma to attend, stated he is planning the program so as to allow for informal discussions on each of the scheduled talks are completed.

MEXICAN NEWSPAPER ALLEGED ITS SPORTS EDITOR ATTACKED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The newspaper Excelsior today charged General Tiras Hernandez, head of the Mexican government physical education department, with beating its sports editor, Manuel Seyde.

The paper credited the incident, which took place last night near an arena after both men had attended a boxing bout, to criticisms Excelsior published about the sending of the Mexican team to the Central American games going on now in Panama.

Excelsior especially assailed the physical education department for allegedly failing to provide proper food aboard the Mexican ship boat Durango, which transported the more than 200 athletes to Panama.

According to Excelsior, its sports editor was "attacked from behind and received several blows by surprise in the face." Seyde showed up at the newspaper office with his left eye bruised.

Excelsior further alleged that because of General Hernandez' standing in President Lazaro Cardenas' cabinet, police made no report of the attack.

BEAUTY GIBSON GIRLS' HOUR CLASS IS RIGHT UP TO THE MINUTE

EDITORS: This is the second of three articles on how to achieve the 1938 figure.

By BETTY CLARKE

AP Feature Service Writer

You're just starting to develop the 1938 figure? Well, it's not all new. The Gibson Girl had a waist for it.

For this year your bust and hips should have the same measurement, but your waist must be 10 inches smaller.

That's the good old hour-glass figure of the early 20th century. Here's an exercise for you if you have to do something about your waist.

"Even a slender woman will have to do waistline as long as her ribs are too near to her hips," says Ann The Gibson Girl Delafield, New York exponent of good figure.

"Bending over a thousand times and touching her toes won't do the trick, either."

To make the waistline slender, says Miss Delafield, there's one important thing to do. That is make way for a waistline by exercising to pull the ribs away from the hips.

And side-stretching is the thing for that. You lie flat on the floor, with arms stretched above you, tight to the floor. Not only that, keep your legs, hips, back and shoulders tight on the floor as well. That's important.

Keeping your arms and legs tight on the floor, move them toward each other as far as you can so that the body assumes a semi-circular position.

This gives the perfect stretch—and serves to pull and stretch the muscles between the hip and ribs. That automatically increases the distance between the hips and ribs—making way for the 1938 waistline.

NEW GRASSHOPPER PLAGUE PREDICTED FOR NEXT SUMMER

THE UPPER PANHANDLE AND NORTH AND CENTRAL TEXAS WARNED

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 14.—(Sp.)—Grasshoppers will return to plague Texas farmers this summer in even greater numbers than they massed the past year, R. R. Reppert, Texas A. and M. College Extension Service entomologist has estimated.

Major hopper attacks can be expected in the upper Panhandle and in North and Central Texas, he said, with lighter raids in the middle valleys of the Brazos and Trinity rivers.

He said a minimum of 100 million grasshoppers will lead the attack, the long-winged migratory, the yellow and the jumbo, with the migratory species presenting the "greatest threat."

Estimates Based on Surveys

Reppert based his estimates on surveys made the past Fall in co-operation with federal entomologists and county agricultural agents. Scientists now they can expect severe hopper infestation the following summer if they find as many as eight egg pods a square foot along ditches or fence rows.

Like surveys in the Fall of 1936 enabled Reppert to predict accurately the 1937 infestation in Texas and led to plans for control measures which, it is estimated, resulted in a saving of more than $6,000,000. Hoppers caused damage estimated at $3,000,000 last year in Texas areas where no control measures were taken.

Hopper control measures hinge upon setting out poisoned bait, usually a mixture of bran and sodium arsenate as the hoppers emerge and before they have time to spread and multiply. Unfavorable weather may act as a controlling factor in grasshopper development, but the winter to date has been favorable to insect life, experts have pointed out.

Severity of the probable 1938 infestation is shown by estimates that Texas will require 14,000 tons of bait this year or six times the amount used in 1937. This bait will cost approximately $280,000.

The federal government appropriated $2,000,000 for purchase of bait material throughout the country the past year, and a like sum is included in the budget now being considered by Congress. Farmers who use government bait material must match it with an equal contribution of their own.

The willingness of farmers to cooperate is evidenced by the fact they contributed materials beyond the point required of them," Reppert said.

As was the case last year, a state grasshopper control committee, with Reppert as state leader, has been set up to co-operate with county committees and county agricultural agents in allotting, distributing and mixing the bait. This committee includes J. M. Del Curto, State Department of Agriculture entomologist, and the following Texas A. and M. staff members: Director, H. H. Williamson, of the Extension Service; Dr. S. W. Blasing, head of the college entomology department; and Dr. F. L. Thomas, state entomologist and chief, division of entomology, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Counties listed by Reppert as facing infestation, and the per cent of susceptible crops likely to be endangered, are divided as follows:

Degrees of Infestation.

76-100 per cent—Dallas 100, Dallas 82, Collin 85, Ellis 76, Hartley 100, King 85, Sherman 100, Wilbarger 77, Grayson 100, 51-75 per cent—Clay 55, Foard 70, Johnson 55, Jones 60, Kaufman 70, Motley 62 and Stephens 51.

31-50 per cent—Deaf Smith 33, Denton 42, Dickens 33, Hansford 39, Hardeman 34, Knox 47, Lamar 40, Lipscomb 32, Montague 50, Potter 45, Randall 47, Roberts 32, San Saba, Scurry 37, Shackelford 32, Stonewall 42 and Wise 50.

16-30 per cent—Archer 28, Armstrong 17, Baylor 30, Brown 20, Carson 16, Childress 25, Floyd 33, Freestone 25, Gray 20, Grayson 20, Hall 18, Hamilton 20, Haskell 28, Hemphill 20, Moore 13, Ochiltree 18, Tarrant 22, Wheeler 17 and Wichita 25.

5-15 per cent—Coleman 8, Donley 10, Eastland 5, Fannin 10, Hutchinson 7, Jack 10, McLennan 11, Moore 13, Runnels 5, and Throckmorton 8.

Less than five per cent—Bosque, Coke, Gottle, Hill, Kent, Llano, McCulloch and Palo Pinto. Counties in which surveys were not made but in which varying degrees of infestation are anticipated include Anderson, Briscoe, Burleson, Callahan, Castro, Falls, Fisher, Grimes, Henderson, Houston, Limestone, Madison, Montgomery, Navarro, Farmer, Robertson, San Jacinto, Swisher, Taylor, Trinity, Walker, Waller and Washington.

News of County Home Demonstration Clubs

Emhouse Club. Contrary to the old belief that chicks should be starved for several hours after hatching, the chicks should be fed as soon as they are placed in the brooder house. Mrs. Mable Stokes, poultry demonstrator, told fifteen members of the Emhouse Home Demonstration Club that met with Mrs. Lola Burton Tuesday afternoon, February 8.

Mrs. Stokes continued by saying water is a very important part of the chicks diet and should always be supplied fresh several times a day. The chicks should have plenty of skim milk. The milk should never be fed in metal containers. The containers should be cleaned thoroughly each time milk is fed. The chicks should have plenty of green feed and sunshine.

Plenty of shade should be provided for the chicks. If trees or other plants do not supply natural shade, artificial shade should be provided. The chicks should be kept in the shade during the first few days of their life.

After the meeting adjourned the hostess served fruit jello and cake to the fifteen members.—Reporter.

Dictatorship for Rumania Decreed by King Carol

DR. MIRON CRISTEA, PATRIARCH RUMANIAN CHURCH, NEW PREMIER

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A new government with dictatorial powers governed Rumania today, commissioned by King Carol to restore confidence shaken by the six-week administration of the anti-Semitic Premier Octavian Goga.

Sixty-eight-year old Dr. Miron Cristea, patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox Church, is the new premier and he will rule without a parliament by decree until a new constitution is promulgated. He acted quickly upon taking oath of fealty to the king with four sweeping decrees which:

1. Named military garrison commanders of large cities as protectors of their districts.
2. Made nation-wide a "state of siege" by which persons charged with serious crimes may be tried before military court. (Bucharest and other larger cities have been under "siege" for a number of years.)
3. Postponed indefinitely chamber and senate elections, set for March.
4. Ordered higher officials of villages to call assemblies for the naming of mayors and to assistants to each mayor.

As the new government took form it became apparent that the king and his new premier had concentrated much authority in the army and some circles described the new regime as a semi-military dictatorship.

The army was given the right of censorship and control of a tight-fisted press censorship, under which newspapers were not permitted to publish photographs of political leaders nor to publish official statements. The army also was authorized to require delivery of arms in private possession.

Business generally received the new government with evident relief. Government bonds rose 2 to 3 points and the stock market turned upward.

The cabinet formation was a centre and liberal group, so that anti-semitic and party activities appeared primarily directed against the fascist-inclined Iron Guard group headed by Corneliu Codreanu.

The decree naming military commanders as protectors placed the nation's civil administration under military control. Telegrams from the premier's office authorized the commanders to assume the prefecture duties and to "preserve order of the king was evident in every move of the new government, which Carol formed by cutting across lines of political parties after the collapse of Goga's regime yesterday.

It was emphasized at the palace, however, that the monarch was taking what he regarded as emergency measures and that he intended to return to constitutional forms of government as soon as the atmosphere cleared of the uncertainties raised the past six weeks.

The new regime, after the period of economic decline and action to suppress Jews arising from Goga, was hailed by Jews and Christians alike with seemingly widespread optimism.

Tension in foreign affairs, it was pointed out, was a factor in Goga's removal, as he had been considered leaning more toward Italy and Germany, rather than France and England.

King Carol, in an announcement to the people, said: "For eight years as your king, I have governed with the co-operation of political parties. In recent times these parties have engaged in disturbing propaganda. This resulted in tension which has affected the whole country."

"So I have decided to create a government which appeals to the highest patriotism of our leaders, and with experienced men who have demonstrated their love for the Fatherland."

"With these men of great authority, I shall try to work out the policies for restoration of confidence. To this end, I shall devote all my energy to serve the people and the country."

Dr. Cristea, who became patriarch in 1925, is the head of a church of 13,300,000 members, about two thirds of the population. He belongs to no party, but supports Centrist democratic views.

He was one of the three regents for three years after the death of King Ferdinand in July, 1927. The regency ended in 1930 with the return of Carol, Ferdinand's son, from voluntary exile. Carol's son, the present crown prince Mihail, died during Dr. Cristea's regency.

After presenting his resignation yesterday afternoon to King Carol, Goga told his ministers "the Jews have defeated me."

Losses from Casualties, Theft, and Wagers

To be deductible, a loss arising from fire, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualty must be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or his automobile is destroyed by fire, or his summer bungalow damaged by flood or storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. Hence, the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure and convenience is deductible. It must be established, however, that the property actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen or lost, the claim would not be allowed.

Losses from wagering transactions are allowable only to the extent of the gains from such transactions.

A loss is deductible only in the year in which it is sustained, even though, as in the case of a theft or casualty, it may not be discovered until a later year. Losses compensated for by insurance or otherwise, of course, are not deductible. However, in the event the amount of insurance is not sufficient to reimburse for the loss sustained, the excess of the loss over the amount of the insurance is deductible.

In general, losses for which an amount may be deducted for income tax purposes must be evidenced by closed and completed transactions, fixed by identifiable events, bona fide and actually sustained during the taxable period for which the claim is made. For instance, a person possessing stock of a corporation cannot deduct from gross income any amount claimed as a loss merely on account of a decline in the value of such stock through fluctuation in the market or otherwise. The loss allowable in such cases is that actually suffered when the stock is disposed of. If stock of a corporation becomes worthless, its cost or other basis is deductible by the owner for the taxable year in which the stock becomes worthless, provided a satisfactory showing is made of its worthlessness. A loss on account of stock becoming worthless is deductible only for the taxable year in which the stock becomes worthless and not for any other year, regardless of the fact that year may not be income for the year in which the stock becomes worthless against which to apply such loss.

Deduction for Bad Debts

Bad debts constitute a considerable item in the returns of many taxpayers and may be treated in one or two ways—either by deduction from gross income in respect to debts ascertained to be worthless either in whole or in part, or by a deduction of a reasonable amount to a reserve for bad debts. Taxpayers were given an option for 1921 to select either of the two methods. The method used in the return for 1921 must be used in returns for subsequent years. Permission to adopt the reserve method is limited to taxpayers having a large number of accounts where credit is extended over a considerable period of time. It is not granted for the purpose of handling one specific debt.

What constitutes a "reasonable addition" to a reserve for bad debts must be determined in the light of the facts, and will vary as the character of the business, its prosperity, its dependence primarily upon the total amount of debts outstanding as of the close of the taxable year, those arising currently as well as those arising in prior taxable years, and the totality of the existing reserve.

In case substantial realizations upon outstanding debts prove to be more or less than estimated at the time of the creation of the existing reserve, the amount of the existing reserve in the existing reserve should be reflected in the determination of the reasonable addition necessary in the taxable year. A taxpayer using the reserve method should show in his return the volume of charge sales (or other business transactions) for the year, and the percentage of the reserve to such amount, the total amount of notes and accounts receivable at the beginning and end of the taxable year, and the total amount of the debts ascertained to be worthless and charged against the reserve during the taxable year.

No. 19.
BAD DEBTS—YEAR IN WHICH DEDUCTIBLE

To be allowed as a deduction from gross income, a bad debt must have been determined by the taxpayer to be worthless within the taxable year for which it is claimed, and also must have been charged off within the same year. The necessity for this provision is obvious. If a debt could be deducted without being charged off, it would be charged off the taxpayer's books, the certainty of its worthlessness would be open to question. Neither the taxpayer nor the government could be certain that a debt would not be claimed more than once.

If a bad debt were allowed as a deduction without regard to the year when it became worthless, charges could be accumulated to be deducted in a year when there was a large income. The burden is upon the taxpayer to show that a debt claimed as a deduction was without value during the taxable year. A statement should be attached to the return showing the property which is the basis of the debt. If in the exercise of sound business judgment a taxpayer concludes, after making every reasonable effort to determine whether there is likelihood of recovery, that the debt is of no value, deduction for such debt is allowable. Court action as proof that the debt is worthless is not essential.

One year prior to that in which it is optional with the taxpayer to take a deduction for partial loss if partial worthlessness occurs. It can be shown that upon maturity of a bond, mortgage, or not evidencing a debt it will not be paid in full, the partial loss is deductible.

Lovely Courtesy to Minnie Belle Keith Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. Monroe Speed of Kerens, the former Miss Frances Cunningham of this city, extended a lovely pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Minnie Belle Keith Saturday afternoon, February 12, at a tea and shower given at the home of her mother, Mrs. John R. Cunningham, 1010 West Fifth Avenue. The hours were from 3:30 to 5:30, and invitations were extended to ninety friends of the honoree, her mother and her fiancé, Harold Blankenship's family.

Mrs. Speed, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cap Cunningham, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Elmer Keith, Mrs. G. L. Blankenship, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, and her sister, Miss Edith Blankenship, received the callers during the hours.

Irma O'Daniel presided over the bride's box, having each one to register before passing into the house at the invitation of Miss Sarah Mitchell and Miss Franchette Abbott.

Mrs. Walker Ingram and Miss Corinne Nokes presided at the tea table the first hour, and Mrs. G. W. Speed and Miss Hallie McClure, the second hour.

Assisting in the dining room during the hours were Miss Vitula Miller of Kerens, Miss McClure and Miss Nokes.

At the tea table was laid with a crystal bowl of yellow jellies and narcissus, placed on a reflector and flanked with brass candleholders holding ivory candles. The open-face sandwiches were served by Mrs. Ingram and Mrs. Speed and tea was poured by Miss Nokes and Miss McClure.

After the tea, the silver trays of icebox cookies and sand-tarts, and silver compotes of mints and salted nuts.

While the guests were viewing the lovely showing, gifts that were displayed on long table in the living room, Miss Margaret Castles and Miss Carolyn Megarity, pianists, took turns in playing appropriate, popular selections.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Ruby Doris Crawford, Mrs. Walker Ingram and Miss Vitula Miller of Kerens.

British recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia.

There were indications Hitler and Mussolini were working together to reach a lasting solution of the Austrian question, which has been the stumbling block between the two German-Italian friendship.

Various explanations of the situation by persons customarily described as well-informed contradicted one another. There were two main versions.

One Hitler is nervous about his army and is in the mood to seize opportunities for conciliation with Austria—especially if they would facilitate negotiations with Britain on German demands for colonies.

That Hitler's army is stronger than ever since the shakeup which concentrated the power in his hands—and twice as dangerous—hence the willingness of Schuschnigg to climb the steep hill to Hitler's Berchtesgaden villa.

Marberry Left to Report At Spring Camp of Mudhens

Fred Marberry, right-handed veteran pitcher, left Corsicana Monday afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Marberry and their two children, for Alexandria, La., where he will report to the spring training camp of the Toledo Mudhens of the American Association.

Marberry for years was a pitcher with the Washington and Detroit clubs of the American League. Later he was an umpire in the American league and property of other clubs. He joined the Dallas Steers a couple of years ago and was manager of the team during a portion of the 1937 season. Following his release as manager and pitcher last summer Marberry finished the season with the Mudhens.

Marberry spent the week end with his mother and other relatives in Streetman and left Corsicana for Louisiana shortly after noon Monday.

od should show in his return the volume of charge sales (or other business transactions) for the year, and the percentage of the reserve to such amount, the total amount of notes and accounts receivable at the beginning and end of the taxable year, and the total amount of the debts ascertained to be worthless and charged against the reserve during the taxable year.

INTERESTING ITEM

OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

TIMELY RIGHT NOW

Just at this time, when progressive citizens of Corsicana and Navarro county are working toward the establishment of a permanent Navarro County Fair plant, an item appearing in the "Fifty Year" column of Monday's issue of the Dallas Morning News will be of interest.

The list of directors of the old fair association was a strong one, and it is interesting to note that, as well as in 1938, the leading citizens of the community believed in a county fair as an institution of worth to the community. The list follows:

The stockholders of the Navarro county Fair Association held a meeting at Corsicana Monday evening and elected the following board of directors: Hon. Marion Martin, L. E. Hay, Capt. James Garrity, Capt. John S. Gibson, E. Cherry, G. T. Jester, S. D. Curtis, R. R. Johnson, Hon. B. T. Barry, F. W. Caruthers, C. S. West, M. Dine and J. E. Whitesear.

All those listed as directors have passed to their reward.

CORSICANA, TEX., FEB. 15, 1938

INCONSISTENT CITIZENS

Back home, they want the government to balance its budget and to give them a chance to carry on their business without interference. At Washington, they want government to help them out of their respective holes, lend them money on easier terms, and curb the other fellows' unfair competition.

This is the contradictory attitude not only of the small business men whose recent conference was such a violent affair, but of many other citizens. It is the attitude of voters who want the government to be economical, but first to spend a large sum of money in their community.

It looks as if many Americans still cannot see the woods for the trees and cannot think about what is good for the nation as a whole because they are so concerned with their own immediate interests. We have not yet learned that enlightened self-interest calls for a longer view of the situation and, perhaps, application of the Golden Rule even in such prosaic human relationships as business and economics.

INCOME

The total national income received by individuals during 1937, as figured by the National Industrial Conference Board experts, was $67,534,000,000. Call it 67 1/2 billions.

That's quite a sizeable sum of money, being about 27 billions ahead of the depression low and only 13 billions short of the 1928 record. And we did so well as that in spite of the growing slump of the last few months.

Just now the national spirit is low, although a slight improvement from the January level is noticeable lately. If we could rise in the next three months as fast as we fell during the last three months of 1937, we should have as good a year as last year, or better.

That is hardly expected now either by business men or statisticians. There are too many uncertain factors. Yet there is general agreement that, if a clear working arrangement could be achieved between business and government, we might forge ahead rapidly.

The cause generally accepted now for the business recession is the old one, familiar to economists—that production of goods outran consumption, or consumption fell behind production, creating an imbalance. In time any such surplus of goods is absorbed and, if the patient is still alive and in reasonably good health, everything goes ahead again. But the longer the crisis lasts, the harder it is to get a new start.

LAWLESS WEATHER

It is risky to generalize about the weather, but J. B. Kincer, national weather recorder, does not hesitate to say that this has been an unusual winter so far. Consider precipitation in December and January.

The area from the Mississippi River east, Mr. Kincer says, had about half its normal precipitation in those months. At the same time, parts of Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana had four times the normal amount of rain and snow. Does that mean the drouth has been broken? Hardly. The true dust bowl area, including parts of Kansas, Arkansas, Texas and Colorado, had only one-quarter of the normal precipitation. A little farther west, virtually all the Rocky Moun-

ABRAHAM LINCOLN
A man called Lincoln passed this way!
Born in a cabin bleak and bare;
Knew toil and hunger and despair
And learned from want and bitter need
A simple, sympathetic creed.
His way was hard. All things of pride
To him were from the first denied
His was a body slipped of grace;
His was an unattractive face,
Yet when he spoke men's hearts were stirred
Because the soul within they heard.
Oft was he mocked and oft betrayed
Yet patient with all men he stayed.
He rose as high as man can rise
Yet playfully left his crown Cained power and still to all he knew
This man called Lincoln gentler grew.
Back to the dust have journeyed kings,
Their thrones but scarce remembered things;
Their greatness merely of the hour.
Their power destroyed by greater power,
But all the world recalls today
A man called Lincoln passed this way.

tain area had from normal to twice the normal amount of snow.
Maybe the sunspots are responsible for these variations; but if so, it is hard to work out any clear law explaining why they produce excess precipitation and a deficiency in two sections of a single state in the same period.

Well, there's no hurry about working out the rule. These vagaries of the weather make it all the more interesting as a subject of conversation and perhaps stimulate the nervous system and mental processes wholesomely.

MORE PAY PER YEAR.

It is agreed by everybody that nothing is more important, for employment and business recovery, than revival of the building industry. It is also agreed by realists that, at least in the first stage of efforts to revive this industry, it may be desirable to modify wage scales along with the price of materials.

It is well, therefore, that the Wagner housing bill, as passed by Congress, does not seek to "freeze" wages at the prevailing union scale per hour. Such freezing, there is reason to fear, might jeopardize the whole movement, retarding revival of the building industry for years and imposing new hardships on a group of skilled workmen who have already endured much hardship. Many of the workmen see this.

There is no desire in any responsible quarters to reduce the earnings of building workers. The desire, on the contrary, is to increase their incomes, and at the same time make house-construction cheaper, until it can no longer be said that workmen "can't afford to live in the houses they build."

This would be no miracle. Many financiers, builders and workmen agree that it might be accomplished by guaranteeing so much work per year, at a lower rate per hour than many union scales now require, that the employees would be employed more continuously and have a higher annual income. Present building wages, in most areas, have been based for many years on expectation of a limited amount of work.

Here is something calling for sincere co-operation of workers, employers and government.

NATURAL HEALING

"Physical therapy," as the doctors call it, is regarded by many people as a new and wonderful system of healing. It may be wonderful, but as Dr. John S. Culter of Northwestern University explains, most of it isn't new at all.
He defines physical therapy as "the use of chemical and physical properties of heat, massage, exercise, light, water and electricity, in the treatment of diseases or injuries."

"The value of these natural agents in treatment," he says, "can be appreciated when we realize that some of them have been used continuously since earliest history. In fact, heat, water, massage and exercise were part of the treatment of instinctive medicine."

—a therapy which existed before the first civilization was derived from instinct. He adds that 90 per cent of physical therapy can be accomplished today with the use of simple agents, and without expensive apparatus.

This is true even of ultra-violet light treatment. Sunlight was used by man for countless generations before he invented a lamp for the purpose. As for the infra-red rays, popular lately and regarded by many as having miraculous potency, our ancestors had the benefit of them every time they built a fire. We can do likewise with hot stoves, steam radiators and electric lamps.

An open fireplace, outdoor fire or tent fire is good for both ultra-violet and infra-red rays. The Arctic explorer, Frederick A. Cook, proved that in the Antarctic long before his better-known North Pole adventure, thereby saving his men's lives.

DIME FOR JEFFERSON

A mild protest is rising against the proposal to change the design of the five-cent piece. The present idea of the Treasury Department is to give Thomas Jefferson as good an inning on the coinage as he has already on our paper money. Sculptors have been asked to submit designs showing his face on one side and his famous Monticello home on the other.

Most of us, regardless of political inclination, would miss that buffalo. We're running short of national totems, and that's a 100-per cent American symbol that we can all agree on. It is artistic, too. At least, it suits the popular taste.

If Jefferson is due for numismatic distinction, why not give him the silver dime? Many of us are tired of looking at that pert model posing as the Goddess of Liberty, anyway. We haven't any enthusiasm, either, for the ax and bundle of fuses on the reverse side—the emblem of Italian Fascism. An outline of Monticello would beat that.

Those Spanish strainers are very thorough. Nearly 200 war orphans hid in a church basement, but the insurgent bombers got them just the same.

Henry Ford Pays Tribute to Friend

WAYS, Ga., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Last survivor of a group of famous friends, Henry Ford paid tribute today to the late Harvey S. Firestone, "his honesty, his industry, and his insistence on quality."

"He was honest to the split second," Ford said.

Wintering on his Georgia plantation, Ford said he regretted he was unable to go to the funeral of Firestone in Akron yesterday and was unable to attend, Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford, attended.

FATHER USES HIS PRETTY DAUGHTERS PASS BAD MONEY

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The machinations of a modern "Svengali," who used his pretty, 15-year-old twin daughters as innocent "fronts" for a counterfeit money scheme, were disclosed by U. S. secret service agents here today.

The "Svengali," they said, was Charles L. Baker of Tucumcari, ex-convict who pleaded guilty to counterfeiting charges in Denver yesterday after he had been arrested for passing allegedly bogus bills at a Trinidad, Colo., grocery store.

Baker, sought for more than a month in connection with a wave of counterfeit money in eastern New Mexico and west Texas, met his downfall when he sought to operate in the absence of his daughters, Wilma and Velma. By using them as unwitting pawns, the agents said, Baker successfully had passed many allegedly counterfeit bills in Clovis, N. M., and Amarillo, Tex., sending the girls into the stores for small purchases, while he waited outside to collect the change they brought back.

The girls came here about a year ago with their mother, becoming known as model school pupils, while their father completed a term for burglary at the Arizona state penitentiary. He was released about two months ago.

The systematic secret service agents said there was no question that the twins had "simply been imposed upon and used" by their father and that "absolutely no action" would be taken against them.

Baker, they revealed, also had served prison terms in Indiana, New Mexico and McNeil Island federal penitentiary.

Navarro Bride Is Complimented With Lovely Shower

NAVARRO, Feb. 12th.—(Sp.)—Mrs. C. E. Marsh, formerly Miss Mattie V. Compton, who is a bride of a few weeks, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower on Tuesday, February 8, at 3 p.m. in the G. W. Harvard home.

Hostesses for this very lovely compliment were Misses Harvard, Fannie Knight, Afton Smith, Sam Harvard, and W. B. Turns.

The home was decorated attractively with japonica and narcissus. The dining table laid in lace over red was centered with japonica in a crystal bowl.

As the guests arrived they were asked to sign their names in the bride's book, made by Miss Geraldine Marsh, with Grace Westmoreland presiding.

When all the guests had arrived Mary Evelyn Collins gave a reading entitled "I Declare," and Mary Leth Goodin read "Bothered," dedicated to the girl left behind.

Piano solos were played by Lenna Rose Harvard, Hazel Smith, and Dorothy Harvard. Music was furnished by Mrs. Hazel Smith and Mrs. Jenkins throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Afton Smith read a poem by Grace Noll Crowell, "To a Bride and Groom" and the honoree was asked to go on a treasure hunt which proved to be a lovely and useful gift from the bride's friends and relatives. After the gifts were opened and passed around for all to admire, the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Bernice Tomlin Horn, Miss Imogene Knight, and Miss Geraldine Marsh served da delicious refreshment plate of coffee or hot chocolate with cake and minted gum. The favors were heart-shaped cards written with white ink, the honoree's name and date.

A new series of Lincoln-Zephyr motor cars went on display Friday in the salesrooms of Calkins and Dublin, Inc., distributors of Ford and Zephyrs for Corsicana, and a cordial invitation has been extended to the motoring public to inspect the new vehicles.

The styling of the 1938 product has been changed to display a new streamline treatment that has proved popular in the past two years and gives a very distinctive appearance. The conventional radiator grille has been subordinated and now small louvers are located near the bottom of the hood panels.

Two new body styles have been added including a convertible sedan and coupe, making a choice of six models available in a variety of colors. A newly designed instrument panel has been added and also a new style of upholstery trimming.

Included among the important mechanical changes are the lengthening of the chassis to 125 inches which increases the spring-base to 130 inches. The motor and transmission has been moved forward adding to the space in the driving compartment. The transmission is now located under the cover and leaves the compartment unobstructed. Gear-clashing is reported almost impossible after the incorporation of a new device which prevents engagement of gears until they are in complete synchronization.

SEVERAL DEFENSE WITNESSES HEARD FRIDAY MORNING

DEFENDANT SCHEDULED TO TESTIFY IN OWN BEHALF THIS AFTERNOON

Several defense witnesses testified Friday morning in the trial of M. Hunter on a murder indictment in connection with the fatal shooting of Frank R. Murphy, last Sept. 15, three miles south of Corsicana, testified at the noon recess that the defendant would take the stand in his own behalf Friday afternoon. Court attaches predicted the introduction of evidence would be completed during the afternoon.

When court opened Friday morning, the defense attorneys made a motion to withdraw their earlier motion for a suspended sentence in the event of conviction.

John Durret, Mexia, formerly resident of the Streeter community, testified he did not know either Murphy or Hunter, but said he was walking along Highway 75 attempting to catch a ride to Streeter the afternoon of the shooting. He said he heard a man shouting "Oh, Daddy, don't do that," and then he heard four or five shots and then two or three louder reports. He said he was about 200 yards away from the scene at the time the shooting occurred.

Paul A. Wright Is Convicted of Manslaughter

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—(AP)—

The case was given to the jury last yesterday. The trial, lasting more than three weeks, was marked by Wright's contention he shot Mrs. Wright and Kimmel in a white flame of jealousy in the face of them in a normal embrace on a piano stool in the Wright residence in Glendale last November 9.

Although the prosecution charged in its opening statement it would attempt to prove the slayings were premeditated, the jury was not asked specifically to vote the death penalty. The state, in concluding its case, stated it had shown murder "in some degree," and asked the jury for its determination.

Jerry Giesler, Wright's counsel, claimed when he fired the fatal shots. He pointed out that under California law a person is not responsible for his acts while in an unconscious state.

COMPLETE TESTIMONY SCHEDULE ARGUMENTS SATURDAY AFTERNOON

M. HUNTER BEING TRIED IN CONNECTION FATAL SHOOTING FRANK R. MURPHY

Arguments of the attorneys in the case of the State of Texas vs. M. Hunter, murder, are scheduled to be made to the jury Saturday afternoon after District Judge Wayne R. Howell delivers his charge. Completion of testimony was made late Friday afternoon.

After being tried in connection with the fatal shooting of Frank R. Murphy, Sept. 15, last year, three miles south of Corsicana.

The defendant did not take the stand Friday afternoon as attorneys had previously indicated.

Thousand Japs Slain In Effort To Cross River

HANKOW, Feb. 12.—(AP)—

More than 1,000 Japanese troops were reported tonight to have been wiped out in a futile attempt to cross the Hwai river near Peng-ping on the Lungshai front in Central China.

Chinese dispatches said many of the Japanese were drowned and others were picked off by Japanese snipers.

Other Japanese units admitted reached the north bank of the stream in face of the Chinese gunfire.

Military observers regard the fighting on the southern edge of the Lungshai corridor as one of the three biggest battles of the war. Chinese defenders have been successful in that area in preventing a union of Japanese units north and south of the 180-mile-wide corridor and to hold two vital, crossing railroads—the North-South Tientsin-Pukow and the East-West Lungshai lines.

LINCOLN DEFENDED FOR INTERFERENCE WITH WAR CONDUCT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 2.—(AP)—

General John McCauley, Palmer of Kansas, defended today some of the Lincoln family members, but said the only criticism should be that it didn't come soon enough.

General Palmer, who had been prepared for the annual meeting of the Abraham Lincoln association, said Lincoln was "a great war leader," suggesting against the tools of had organization, but military policy and bad professional advice.

On Lincoln's 129th birthday anniversary, Palmer said that the theory of some historians that the civil war was prolonged because the president was always "butting in" and changing his generals.

The speaker said that Lincoln had followed his common sense hunch to interfere a few months earlier, he would have shortened the war by at least a year.

He believed that his professional military advisers knew something about their profession.

General Palmer, writer and soldier who served in Cuba, China, the Philippines and France, contended the regular army officers, with "a total paralysis of intelligence," refused at the outbreak of the war to help Lincoln's regime.

While General Lee kept up a series of Southern victories, Lincoln finally used the trial and error method of seeking capable commanders until Grant emerged as the supreme command, Palmer said.

Grant had had the opportunity to develop leadership in the Mississippi valley campaigns.

When Lincoln Split Infinitives INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 12.—(AP)— busy corner in downtown Indianapolis drew notice on Abraham Lincoln's birthday today, as the place where the rival splitters president once split an infinitive on the way to the White House.

Lincoln stopped here the day before his birthday in 1861 on his way to Washington to be inaugurated. He spoke from the balcony of the Bates House, a hotel since torn down.

A bronze tablet on the Claypool Hotel, which now stands on the site, quotes Lincoln as having said on the occasion: "I appear to you to constantly hear in mind that not with politicians, not with presidents, not with office-seekers but with you is the question: Shall the union and shall the liberties of the country be preserved to the latest generations?"

The Times and the Enterprise are among the oldest weekly papers in the county, both having been published for nearly 50 years.

Mr. Crawford and Mr. Campbell have had considerable experience in the newspaper field and under their management the two papers will continue to be valuable assets to the communities they serve.

The first shot was the loudest. He said he saw his father in the back yard with the radiator cap in one hand and the pistol in the other and two more shots were fired by Hunter.

The witness said he found an empty shell in the front yard a few minutes after the shooting near the abandoned automobile of the defendant and picked it up and carried it to the back yard where he dropped it with other empty shells.

Under cross-examination the witness said he did not tell any officer that he had found the shell in the front yard and told the district attorney Thursday.

He denied his father called Hunter as the defendant drove by the residence. He said he saw his father did not shoot four times before Hunter fired. He admitted that his father put his pistol over his hip pocket so the defendant could not see it. He also said he did not hear his sister say anything after going out of the house.

The State rested and after a conference among attorneys, the evidence was closed at 4:48 p. m. Friday.

HITLER REPORTED PLANNING GESTURES OF CONCILIATION

PLANNED ACTION BROUGHT BY UNFRIENDLY RECEPTION GIVEN NAZI SHAKEUP

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—(AP)—

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, alarmed at the collapse of Rumania's fascist-inclined government and the unfriendly reception given his governmental shakeup abroad, apparently has decided to make a series of gestures of conciliation in himself.

For the present these are in the direction of Austria, the Catholic Church and more may follow. These moves were given dramatic direction today when Hitler met Chancellor von Schuschnigg of Austria for a secret conference on the delicate relations between the two neighbors.

The hasty return to Vienna of Franz von Papen, who was recalled as ambassador in the shakeup, "for important negotiations," now assumes meaning. It was he who carried Hitler's invitation to the Austrian chancellor for today's meeting.

Similarly, attendance of official representatives of Hitler and the state at the Pope's coronation anniversary mass must be taken as more than a polite gesture.

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—(AP)—

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler conferred today and secretly today with Chancellor von Papen, who was recalled as ambassador in the shakeup, "for important negotiations," now assumes meaning. It was he who carried Hitler's invitation to the Austrian chancellor for today's meeting.

Similarly, attendance of official representatives of Hitler and the state at the Pope's coronation anniversary mass must be taken as more than a polite gesture.

ENGLAND FACED

Beauty Diary

of Edna Kent Forbes
ROUNDED ARMS

If your arms are not pretty enough for you to fully bare them in evening frocks, make them so by following Miss Forbes' advice today.

Graceful, rounded arms should be acquired by every woman who wishes to look her best in evening dress. Beautiful arms are as great an asset as a lovely face and throat. And blushing on the skin may be hidden, and all of it may be treated to a coat of liquid powder, or given a cream base with a coating of the same powder used for the face. If the upper part of the arm is not firm and rounded, it is better to have some sheer and transparent material used as part of the shoulder arrangement of the gown.

Women who do not exercise, or who are not in the best condition physically, may have firm lower arms, but flabby upper ones. The very stout woman also often has too full an upper arm, so, for either type, some form of exercise should be used. The following will help to strengthen the upper arm muscles, which means reduction for the one with too much fatty tissue, and firmness for the weak and thinned muscles of the flabby arms. Firmness of the hands on the floor. Kneel with hands on the floor, fingers pointing toward each other, back flat, and head up. Start bending the elbows slowly. Bend forward as you raise and extend the first one leg, then the other, while with each effort the forward movement should carry your chest all the way down until you touch the floor. Return slowly to first position and repeat a bit. Do each of these movements at least four or five times. The pressure put upon the upper arm muscles will be an intensive exercise, and therefore give result faster than the simpler arm movements.

Mrs. C. S.—In giving yourself the facial exercise, when you work on the muscles all around the eyes, you make an effort to squeeze all the muscles together, a voluntary contraction, so they are all bunched together. Then you use your palms in the kneading process. This takes practice, but you will find that all your facial muscles at first are difficult to move, but become more and more amenable as you practice contraction.

If you have any beauty problems you cannot solve, write for Edna Kent Forbes three "NEW" beauty booklets: "Fifteen Minutes a Day for Beauty," "The Six Points of Beauty," "Bathing and Bathing for Beauty." Signing Petition Old Age Pension Proves Too Much

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—(AP)—It was against the life-long principles of Dan J. Sullivan, who had reached his three score and ten years to be dependent upon any one. He believed a man should be able to stand always on his own feet. But being crippled and unemployed, he found it necessary to forget his pride and apply for an old-age pension. The application bothered him no little, and sitting in a dingy, third-floor room of an east Second street hotel, he wrote the following note:

"My worst curse—signing an old-age pension application. By doing it, I signed away my liberty as an American citizen. Finis, Dan J. Sullivan."

He hobbled to the window, placed his crutches by the sill and climbed out on the fire escape. There he stood a few moments on his own feet, unsupported, then, he jumped. Coroner Frank Nance recorded his death today as a suicide.

SECRET MEETING OF HEADS AUSTRIAN AND GERMAN NATIONS

CONFERENCE ALLEGEDLY BROUGHT ABOUT BY MUS-
SOLINI OF ITALY

VIENNA, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg of Austria met Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler of Germany for a secret conference today at the urgent suggestion of Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

The Austrian cabinet sat in continuous session as Schuschnigg conferred with Hitler at the German Fuehrer's mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden.

Austria, troublesome crossroads of Europe, has long been a sore point in otherwise cordial relations.

The great majority of Austrians are German-speaking and the Anschluss Union—has been one of the main desires of the Nazi party and Hitler, himself a native of Austria.

The last time union between Germany and Austria was threatened, shortly after Hitler came to power, Italy mobilized her army on the Austrian border in implicit warning to Germany to keep Since then the two fascist states have joined forces in the Rome-Berlin axis. Italy has been reported to have given Germany a free hand in Austria in exchange for a sphere of influence in the Balkans, aid in developing conquered Ethiopia and support for fascist policy in the Spanish civil war.

Von Papen Present.

Franz von Papen, recalled a ambassador to Vienna in Hitler's drastic governmental shake-up

The meeting was arranged with the greatest secrecy. Schuschnigg left Vienna ostensibly for Innsbruck but entered Germany from Salzburg.

It was stated here that Hitler had several times urged Schuschnigg to make a personal call on the Austrian chancellor yesterday.

He decided to accept after being urged to do so by Mussolini.

Only sketchy reports of the meeting reached Vienna but meeting, purporting to come directly from Schuschnigg, said the outlook for improved relations between Austria and Germany was extremely good.

One report current in Vienna was that the Austrian cabinet may be reconstructed shortly. It is said that the new cabinet will make places for several ministers sympathetic to Germany.

Hitler was said to have urged Schuschnigg to bring Austria more closely into line with the Rome-Berlin axis that links Germany and Italy, Austria's two powerful neighbors.

Schuschelnigg was reported to have taken with him bulky police documents showing the character of recent illegal nazi activities in Austria, activities which German officials agreed to curb under the friendship act.

The Austrian official press bureau in announcing the conference said that "no change

"It was the wish of the German fuhrer to have a heart-to-heart talk with his Austrian colleague," the spokesman said. "Consequently Schuschnigg accepted the invitation."

The meeting took place at Hitler's mountain retreat where he has been resting since his departure from Vienna.
